

Wolf Ways

Together with Oregon Wild in Portland, Wolf Haven International is proud to sponsor Wolf Ways, a wolf education program designed for children Pre-K through 6th grade. Within its first two years, Wolf Ways reached over 1800 young people. Adult presentations are also available.

Through lively interactive multi-media presentations – including video and audio clips, a replica wolf skull and track, wolf fur, a life size wolf and bull elk cut out, lots of pictures and wolf stories from the field – children will enter the world of wolves. Based on scientific research and observations, children will learn about:

- Life in the wolf pack
- Physical adaptations
- Wolf communication and their fascinating social world
- The role of wolves in the ecosystem
- Wolves that live in Oregon or Washington
- Many more fun and interesting facts!

"Your presentation was great! Our students learned SO much. Parents were very impressed with all they had learned and they all commented that their child taught them many new things as well. ... I was talking to a friend whose daughter is in preschool and she mentioned how her daughter's class had this great wolf presentation with a big wolf cutout come to their classroom - I am sure it was you! She said that her daughter talked about wolves nonstop after that! Thank you for coming to classrooms and sharing your wolf knowledge with everyone - it really has made a difference!" Jessica Ekegren, 2nd grade teacher, Springville K-8 School, Portland, OR.

Programs are designed to meet the Next Generation Science Standards. The presentation content and style will vary according to the children's age level. Programs are available in northern Oregon and southern Washington State and are available to any interested group, including public and private schools, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, libraries, nature centers, private groups and community centers.

"I loved the format: visuals- life size models, video, howling, LOTS of audience participation, objects to hold at the end, size comparison to elk, and the story of yearling and pups. This is a wonderful presentation to highlight the importance and plight of wolves. I highly recommend this presentation to grades 3 and under!" Amy Eshelby, 1st – 3rd grade teacher, Childpeace Montessori School, Portland, OR.

"Everything was really covered well and tailored to our studies. Going back and forth between speaking and showing visuals was perfect for our age group and helped with engagement. You really impressed both the kids and adults at City View." Tonya Mauk, 6th grade teacher, City View Charter School, Hillsboro, OR.

These programs are available free of charge and are given by volunteer outreach educators representing Oregon Wild and Wolf Haven.
